GENERAL ELLIOTT SEES FUSION NOW

Feels That Colonel Roosevelt's Position Will Have Influence in the State.

(SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAM) WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8.—General Elliott is here and has had conferences with the regular military authorities at the War Department. General Elliott, it may be recalled, is still adjutant general of West Virginia. His enemies have been trying for some time to pry him loose from the job, but his friends (and few men who have been in public life as long as he, and more) have been working just as zealously to keep him in. They say he has made good in the place, and there is no one in sight who could improve on his services. Be that as it may, General Elliott is still at the head of West Virginia's standing army. Maybe the fact that he is the only one of the really prominent who stuck it out and had the nerve to attend the Huntington Progressive feed (the same being the occasion upon which Uncle Billy M. O. Dawson was read out of the party, to which reading he gave no heed) has something to do with General Elliott holding his place. And it may be, too, that no West Virginian is closer to the colonel in West Virginia now than Elliott has something to do with it, also.

Just now the general is showing to his intimate friends a letter from the colonel, written the day before he sailed for Spain, urging Elliott to come to see him upon his return to his native country. Such a communication is in the nature of a royal "command." Evidently the colonel wants to hear from the general first-hand about political conditions in West Virginia. He has relied on the general for that for a number of years. Will the general go to call on the colonel? He will, and he will have a good deal to tell him, and what he tells him may play an important part in shaping political events in West Virginia. At the present time, in view of the colonel's attitude as to New York state politics, General Elliott thinks that here will be fusion between the Republicans and Progressives in West Virginia, especially as to congressional candidates. There would be no consistency, he said, in the Progressives supporting Sutherland, Avis and Moss.

KING IS AN ACTOR IN A MOVIE DRAMA

Unknowningly King Christian, of Denmark, Filmed in a Heroic Act.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS) PARIS, June 8.—King Christian, of Denmark, who, with Queen Alexandra, recently paid an official visit to President Poincaré and Mme. Poincaré, probably is the only sovereign who has played the role of an actor in a moving picture drama.

The incident occurred at Hornbæk, a small watering place near the capital. A cinematograph company had arranged the setting for an unusual scene for the films. It was to be a ship wreck in which a young woman, her child, and the woman's mother were participants. The king was promenading on the beach. Suddenly he noticed the unfortunate, their hair disheveled, who seemed to be calling for help. The king started bravely to rescue them when a young actor, hero of the drama, picked them up, the life of the drama, which they were equipped with having lessened the chances of any fatal ending of the scene. The king finding he had been included in the picture was vexed and expressed the desire that it be destroyed. The last half of the drama had to be played without his assistance.

DELIVERIES BEGIN JULY THE FIRST

For the season of 1915 the Buick line will consist of a Model C-24 Roadster, a Model C-25 Touring Car, A Model C-36 Roadster, a Model C-37 Touring Car, A Model C-38 Cabriolet and a Model C-55 Seven Passenger Six Cylinder.

The enormous production of thirty-two thousand cars for the season of 1914 permitted the installation of the Delco Lighting and Starting System at no extra cost to the user over the price of 1913 and the phenomenal sale of this entire 1914 production in less than eight months will, in our opinion, bring a very substantial reduction in price on all models for the season of 1915. A number of refinements and conveniences will be added to the same models but the same sterling structural qualities, the same powerful overhead valve motor, and the same wonderful hill climbing ability that have made their predecessors famous will be found in every 1915 Buick.

There are more Buicks with a record of more than one hundred thousand miles of service than all other makes combined regardless of price.

Look for the Buick announcement in the Saturday Evening Post June the 27th which will contain full information on the complete 1915 Buick line together with the new prices. Place your order at once as deliveries will be in the order in which specifications are received.
